

Microplastic Contamination in Agricultural Systems

Microplastics in the agricultural domain have drawn focus in recent years. They have been widely reported in various other ecosystems including marine, freshwater, groundwater, terrestrial, glaciers, and biota. The talk will present the current state of research, standard sampling techniques, analytical methodology to identify and quantify microplastics in the environment along with preliminary findings from a pilot study conducted in Delhi.

by Harshit Sahai

Theoretical & Applied Sciences Unit
ISI N-E Centre

WHEN

January 13, 2021 (Wednesday)

12 noon

WHERE

Classroom 2, ISI N-E Centre

ALL ARE CORDIALLY INVITED

Indian Statistical Institute

North-East Centre
Tezpur, Assam

ISI NE COLLOQUY

ISI NE Colloquy hopes to engage minds in academic discourses pertaining to a gamut of theoretical and applied disciplines.

It envisions to host brainstorming sessions with stimulation from experts and scholars.